

ChatGPT and Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI). AI Generated Content and Citations.

As ChatGPT and similar generative AI technologies are rapidly evolving, citation styles might also change as new information becomes available. Please ensure to check for any updates.

Citations help the reader understand where your information is coming from. If the reader wants to follow up on a particular point you are making, they can follow your citation or reference source.

Here are some examples:

APA Citation Style: References
ChatGPT

BIBLIOGRAPHIC REFERENCE

Author(s) Date Title Model Descriptions

OpenAI. (2023). ChatGPT (Mar 24 version) [Large language model].
→ <https://chat.openai.com/chat>
0.5 in URL

Outline of an APA Citation for General Artificial Intelligence Programs and Chatbots:
Name of Company/creator of generative AI Tool. (Year). Name of the generative AI program (model of program) [Large language model]. URL.

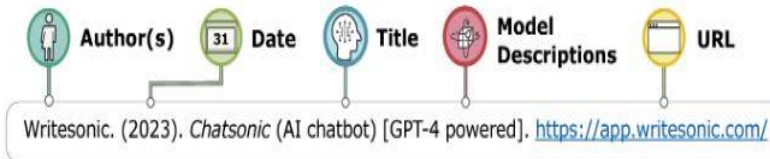

Formatting: Double-space your reference list and use a 0.5 inch hanging indent for each entry

Real World Example for General Artificial Intelligence Programs and Chatbots:
Perplexity. (2023). Perplexity.ai (AI Chatbot) [Large language model]. <https://www.perplexity.ai/>

APA Citation Style: References

General Artificial Intelligence Programs and Chatbots

BIBLIOGRAPHIC REFERENCE

Formatting: Double-space your reference list and use a 0.5 inch hanging indent for each entry.

Example of citations and reference:

APA Format	OpenAI. (Year) ChatGPT (Month, Day version) [Large language model] http://chat.openai.com
APA Reference	OpenAI. (2023) ChatGPT (February 13 version) [Large language model] http://chat.openai.com
APA In-text Citation	(OpenAI. 2023)

Note:

Universities and other institutions are still developing guidelines on how ChatGPT or similar might be used. Always follow your institution's guidelines. For more information see

<https://www.scribbr.com/ai-tools/chatgpt-university-policies/>